Chinese Drive Wedge to Force Foes Back Into Whangpoo River

and Japanese marines holding the Hongkong sector. Chinese said at one point their lines had been advanced four miles, although on most of the front it held to a few hundred yards. The Chinese attacking forces received savage bombardment from the air from Japanese warships on the river and batteries ashore as they drove their lines forward. Military experts said that if the Chinese succeeded in reaching the waterfront and holding their new line the position of the Japanese between the Whangpoo and Kiangwan rivers would be precarious.

NEAR U. S. BRITISH TROOPS

Somewhat Creek forms the boundary between the Japanese section of the International Settlement and the western districts guarded by American marines and British infantry standing behind strong barbed wire to prevent incursions by either contending army. The Japanese positions were situated just a mile below the "Hill" Hotel in the heart of the Japanese area of the International Settlement. With the water at their backs the Japanese were battling hard to keep from being cut in two. Tanks and armored cars were rushed into the line to bolster the Japanese line, but they were slowly but steadily being forced to give ground.

The Chinese thrust came amid Japan's first major offensive in the Kiangwan area of North Shanghai where the great city center is located. There the Chinese apparently were holding their own against Japanese infantry, artillery, naval and air attacks.

Heavy reinforcements of regular army troops from Japan hastened to the scene. Japanese marines and artillery were landed at the Yangtze River mouth, ready to disembark their forces under the guns of Japanese destroyers.

JAPAN BOMBING JIBBS

Japanese air bombs missed their mark and smashed at the American Southern Baptist Mission in a "bogie" quarter in North Shanghai, said at the American Mission Hospital at Nanking today. The mission suffered heavily, and the fate of its 25 Americans was not known. The bombs apparently were aimed at a power house.

The international rail station at Chongch, near Shanghai, also was

As Japanese pushed a pincer movement, enveloping Chinese in area around Shanghai, forcing back Chinese into the International Settlement, a surging Chinese drive threatened to break the "squeeze" (as drawn above) and drive the Japanese into the Whangpoo.

air-bombed without important damage. American consular authorities took a firm stand against a Japanese naval plan to take complete control of the River Whangpoo by which foreigners must be evacuated to the U. S. CONSUL TAKES STAND

United States Consul General Clarence E. Guine decisively told Japanese naval authorities traffic between Shanghai and Woosung, the gateway to the sea and safety for thousands of Americans—must be absolutely unrestricted.

As the Japanese started their offensive, Vice-Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commander-in-chief of the Japanese fleet operating against Shanghai, notified the American authorities the Japanese navy wished to restrict traffic on the Whangpoo river over which almost 1,000 Americans have been evacuated. Guine replied immediately such action could not be countenanced. Other foreign authorities were un-ward into position. Exceptionally numerous casualties were reported on both sides. The shelling of the Japanese troops east of Kiangwan was unusually heavy.

The thick smokes billowed all over the area, throwing up a giant curtain of smoke between Kiangwan and Shanghai. The flagship of the United States fleet, the cruiser Augusta, in the foreground of the Whangpoo river, presented a majestic picture against the fire-ravaged Kiangwan and Woosung sectors in the distance.

The thick smokes billowed from three points fore and aft in the Whangpoo river.

NANKING ARSENAL HAZED

Japanese reports said a Chinese powder magazine and arsenal at Nanking had exploded when it was bombed by raiding Japanese planes. A fire was said to be raging in the arsenal.

Most of the damage done to Nanking came from the guns of the Japanese destroyers, which slipped expertly into strategic position alongside the Augusta during the night, with their lights blacked out.

This great metropolis of 3,000,000 persons went on a truly war-time basis today. Public utilities supplying the essentials of the city life and activity ordered a most conservation of their services.

The huge plant of the American-owned Shanghai Power Company ordered every possible emergency. The plant, which supplies Shanghai with electric light and power, is situated on the banks of the Whangpoo. Deep within the Japanese-occupied territory.

The operators directed vital oil supplies were running low and emergency oil installations were being rushed to maintain operations. The city will be virtually lightless hereafter, with the only current restricted to hospitals, evacuation depots and the like.

CITY ON RATIONS

Foreign communities already have gone on wartime rations. The American club, which has become the great downtown center of American interests, is feeding huge numbers of people. The usually elaborate menus, however, have been cut down to soup, beef and bread.

Reconstructions were being rushed here for the International Settlement guard. The arrival of the great downtown center of American interests, is feeding huge numbers of people. The usually elaborate menus, however, have been cut down to soup, beef and bread.

ROOSEVELT SON STUNNED BY DIPLOMATS

stained suit, and said yes, indeed, it was Mr. Roosevelt who proposed him over the head with a bouquet while a pal dismissed him with seawater.

EMBASSY SILENCER

Back of the sudden silence when was put on the "battle of the flowers" episode last night by the foreign office, it was understood, was the United States embassy, headed by veteran diplomat William C. Bullitt.

As a result, the foreign office spokesman (apparently much to M. Nouveau's surprise), blandly announced that "Major Nouveau now believes he may have mistaken two other Americans for Mr. Roosevelt and his companion."

Nouveau declared today he had been instructed by the Minister of the Interior to confiscate a photograph of Joseph Roosevelt taken before the alleged incident. Pressure was brought to bear on him both by the Quai d'Orsay and the American embassy.

John Dreyton, a British journalist, stopped into the controversy today by stating he had witnessed the alleged incident. When he ventured to demonstrate, he declared a water-cooled bouquet was thrown at him also.

Official dispatches were sent around to French newspapers, which "played down" the story.

Young Roosevelt called on Ambassador Bullitt yesterday and gave him a full explanation and denial, which was called to his notice in Washington.

JOHN DENIES IT

Indisputably, it was learned, John told friends:

"We did not both in front of the reviewing stand during the battle of the flowers. The major never approached me during the whole evening. We did not throw champagne at him or any other man, nor slap anybody's face with flowers."

"It is all a complete misunderstanding," he said. "I don't know if I must have been someone else."

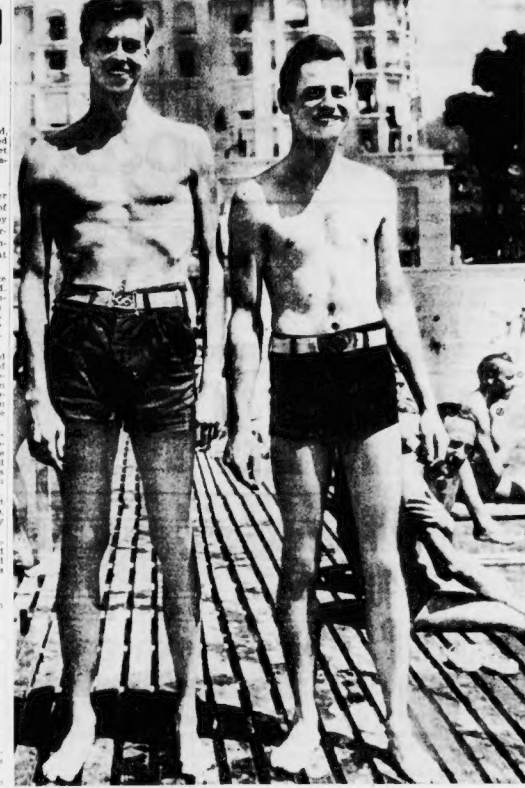

John's denial was the much discussed matter, but it was not the end of the story.

But America there with a firm policy, long repeated.

It is regret to say I am certain that it was Mr. Roosevelt."

The British National, French press, and other newspapers today to discuss the Cannes battle of champagne.

CENTER OF CANNES CLAMOR

JOHN ROOSEVELT JOHN DREYTON Happy, before taking a dip at Cannes, France, are John Roosevelt, the President's son, with his touring companion, John Dreyton of Boston. The two say the champagne-blower episode at Cannes is all a case of mistaken identity. They had nothing to do with hopping the mayor with flowers, spraying him with champagne.

ENTRAPPED BY LARGELY CHINA THREAT

Two Boston men were on route here from New York today to face larceny charges after being picked up by a winged flying squad on the South China coast today. The two men, identified as two of three taken from the Peking gang in Brighton Avenue, Aulston, on June 25.

The two in custody of Boston officers are returning for trial here as Harry Levine, of Brighton Avenue, and Joseph J. Luzzanelli, of Dudley street, Roxbury.

The cash registers, property of a grocery store in Brighton, were taken from a car and put in their port, being served at the garage.

Japan Executes 4 For Army Revolt

Tokyo Aug. 18 (AP)—Four men who took part in the military uprising of February, 1936, were executed today.

They were Kei Nakamura and Aoki Ichiro, former army officers, who were sentenced in 1936 to life imprisonment for a "patriotic" revolution, and Zai Nakahara, retired infantry lieutenant, both sentenced last Aug. 13.

The three former officers and ex-guards died for the same crime July 12, 1936.

Falmouth Votes Cash for Welfare

Falmouth, Aug. 18 (AP)—An annual $10,000 to complete this year's work was voted in the hands of the board of public welfare today, after Falmouth's first representative town meeting authorized the expenditure.

For old age assistance funds the meeting voted $700 from the existing fund, and the total amount was $156 of the 229 representative voters.

He Spoke Too Quickly

Philadelphia, Aug. 18 (AP)—"You know I hate hospitals," remarked Claude Alexander, as he drew a friend, Charles Lee, to a hospital yesterday to await an operation for appendicitis.

"You sure didn't get it," he said. He spoke too soon. As he was being taken to the hospital, he was taken in his side. "Acute appendicitis," diagnosed Dr. Alfred Daniel. So they rushed Alexander to an operating table.

"He's feeling pretty good now," said Dr. Daniel today.

"HONEY" SAYS
PRINCE YARN
IS HOKUM

Three shattered romances, each with an international twist, held the center of the spotlight today.

In two of them, "woman chase" was the theme, but in the romantic episode that links the names of Muriel Stacey Johnson and Prince David Midway.

"Honey," exploiting and shaming his bride, arrived in Manhattan from abroad with her devoted father and young Jesse Livermore, Jr., and about went her romance with the last of the marrying Midways.

"Ridiculous," said Honey. "Princess," said her daddy. "Then, right before the ship news reporters, fell into the arms of an unidentified youth who came down the aisle, the champagne when young Livermore took up the bride, married what took up the son."

"Here's how that story started about Honey marrying Midway. I was with the prince in Europe and read Honey and her parents was coming over."

"So I says to Midway, 'Prince, there's a girl you could go nuts over. Gentlemen, the prince did go nuts over her. But she ain't agree' to marry him. I could marry her myself in a minute if I wanted."

"That led line sounded quaint to the reporters, who were eating a delicious dinner at Honey, still in the embrace of the unidentified youth."

But they had to listen to Lady Johnson, who was saying: "Every time my daughter dances with a man, she's reported engaged."

"That's right. I danced a few times with Midway, and that's all there is to it."

She had no comment to make about a "woman chase" romance. The Johnsons returned to their home in Brookville, N. Y., and Livermore started for the street with a job with his father.

The wedding, strange to say, had been a word. But he had and his time to exhibit acquiescence.

Romance No. 2 today found Harriette Fern Anderson celebrating that

GIRL, 14 Honeymoons IN CABIN VERMONT DAD O. K.'S BRIDAL

Stratton, Vt., Aug. 19.—A storm of comment today swept through this quiet community when it was learned that a 14-year-old girl, one of 12 children and a daughter of a town selectman, was married last Saturday to a 22-year-old New York youth.

The bride is the former Doris Clara Hurd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hurd, the former a straiten selection and one of the leaders in local civic affairs.

NEW YORK YOUTH
The groom is Frederick L. Richmond, of Park Rockaway, L. I., N. Y., son of Frederick Richmond of that city. He was formerly employed in a Park Rockaway bank, but has been working for the past few months on the country estate of Scott Nearing, well known liberal political writer and lecturer, near here.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. M. Watts of Jamaica in his parsonage.

The father's bride not only gave her permission but as a selectman under the law signed the official permit for the marriage. The bride's mother attended her as matron of honor.

CABIN HONEYMOON
At present, the newweds are honeymooning in a big cabin on the shore of the girl's home. They will remain there until October. When the bridegroom's work on the Nearing estate will be finished. After that, they have no plans.

The new Mrs. Richmond is described as a very pretty girl, two years older than her years, with light blonde hair and dark, expressive eyes. She is slender, has an attractive manner and is well liked in the community. She is the fifth child in a family of 12. She attended the Park Rockaway school near by and completed the eighth grade.

Marilyn Miller's Widower to Wed Blonde Model

New York, Aug. 19.—Charles O'Brien, the handsome chorist who wooed and won the late Marilyn Miller when she was a Broadway dancing star and he was just a humble "member of the cast," will wed again, it was disclosed here today.

This time, he confided to friends, it will be Anna Parker, stunner blonde model. They will be married in Astoria, N. Y., August 24 according to present plans.

O'Brien's legal fight to claim a share in Miss Miller's estate ended only two months ago with him on the losing end.

While the beautiful dancer raised more than a million dollars with her twinkling toes during her stage and screen career, she died "broke."

O'Brien, in a sensational court battle, tried to claim half of a $250,000 trust fund established by Miss Miller for her mother. The case was a battle. Her sister charged that O'Brien during the year and a half of their marriage, and that during her last illness he whisked her away and was not at her bedside when she died April 7, 1935.

Supreme Court Justice Sutherland dismissed O'Brien of the charges but ruled he had no claim on the trust fund.

Bob Taylor Grins Amid 500 Women

New York, Aug. 19.—Ginning from cat in hat, Robert Taylor was humbled by 12 happy railroad cops through 100 determined female admirers when he arrived at Grand Central terminal today after a strenuous trip from Hollywood.

The ladies were intent on getting an eyeful of his beard and also his autograph. They got both, while Taylor's publicity cops beamed.

The curly-haired screen star refused to blink when he was asked pointblank: "Do you think you are beautiful?"

"I'm a red-headed man and I've got hair on my chest," he smiled and answered. "I'm a red-headed man and I've got hair on my chest."

Taylor sails for England Saturday to make a picture.

'Sleeping Beauty' Reported Improved
Chicago, Aug. 18 (AP)—Patricia Mayne, the sleeping beauty, who has lain in a coma for nearly five years, was apparently recovering today from the effects of a heart attack.

She was removed from a hospital from her home in Ashland, Pa., for a rest cure, Mrs. Mayne, now 31, contracted her ailment in February, 1932.

Girl, 11, Kindergarten Teacher in Winthrop

DESPITE YOUTH
TAKES JOB SERIOUSLY

HARRIET MARSH MARY LOU SHEEHAN RICHARD McWHORTER
Here's Winthrop's 11-year-old Kindergarten teacher, Harriet Marsh, with two of her six small pupils. They each pay her 25 cents a week tuition. Nearest the blackboard is Mary Lou Sheehan, Richard McWhorter is waiting his turn. Schoolmarm Marsh conducts her classes in her home in Bowdoin Street, Winthrop. Subjects of instruction include reading, arithmetic but no script writing. Harriet's pupils learn to print their letters.

When the pupils of the little kindergarten on Bowdoin street, in Winthrop, sing "Good-morning, dear teacher," the young person before them is not the conventionally prim, bespectacled schoolmarm.

No indeed, the picture is quite different. Instead, teacher is an amiable, skirted, above-the-knee young lady of 11. She is Miss Harriet Marsh of Bowdoin street, Winthrop, who, despite her youth, takes her job very seriously.

There are six pupils in the kindergarten, which convenes three times weekly in the sunporch of the home of the instructress on Bowdoin street. The pupils range in age from three to five and they pay as tuition the meager sum of 25 cents weekly.

TEACHERS TRAINING
Teacher's training has been an grade of grammar school in which she has received all "A" grades. Except Harriet Marsh was creditably dependent.

If you want to tell her pupils, teacher herself takes to whisper in school. But, to get down to business, she has proper of the kindergarten, the boys and girls study arithmetic, printing, English and drawing. They are also marked for chaste, courteous, clean, obedient and effort. Report cards are given out twice a term and require the signature of the parent.

KNOWLEDGE GAINED
When a little five-year-old student graduates from Harriet Marsh's school, he can recite the alphabet and count to a hundred. How did Miss Marsh manage to train in school-marming? Says she:

"I used to love to play school and I want to be a school teacher when I grow up, so I thought I would start now."

Harriet's school is such a success that she thinks she may charge 50 cents a week next year.

Shark Oil Helping War

Washington, Aug. 19 (AP)—Shark oil is being used to lubricate airplanes used by the Japanese in bombing Shanghai, the Commerce Department was advised today.

Japan imports most of its lubricating oils. As a result it has sought to develop new sources.

Under a recently invoked Japanese process, oils from sharks can be used in temperatures as cold as 45 degrees below zero.

MRS. MARY HOWORTH
Allied in Opposing Marriage Annulment

she had just banned her former husband, Jan Keith, to his present house and was going to "kill the lion."

But pictures of Jan and his now wife, the former Mrs. Hildegarde Pickett Smith of Chicago, indicated the British stage and screen actor were quite happy together in Hollywood after a brief separation.

Mr. J. Constance Worth, screen actor, predicted that she would be successful in her fight against the attempt of her husband, George Pickett, to have their Mexican marriage declared void. Miss Worth has her mother with her as she wages battle in Los Angeles.

MRS. TUCKER FREED ON SUPPORT CHARGE
Gloucester, Aug. 19.—Sheena was immediately freed from arrest and is now at home.

The estranged wife of Burton S. "Cinderella Boy" Tucker in Gloucester District Court today was freed of her husband's charge that she failed to support their three children.

Judge Edward Murely dismissed the complaint brought last week after she had filed a similar charge against Tucker, upon the motion of her attorney, R. Chandler Davis. His action was preceded by a squabble among opposing counsel as to whether Mrs. Tucker should take the stand in her own defense.

J. Russell Hoban, attorney for the husband, called Mrs. Tucker to the stand after Tucker had related several instances of neglectful support during the past two weeks. He was challenged by Davis who declared Mrs. Tucker was privileged under her constitutional rights to refuse to testify. Judge Murely then ruled it was up to the husband's attorney to prove his case. When Mrs. Tucker decided she would testify, her attorney moved

"He's always been a playboy, but the time for him to stop playing has arrived."

Arguing for dismissal, Hoban asserted that the "playboy" spouse was "a designing scheming woman who took a boy of 16 and made a puppet of him."

STATE TO REDEEM WPA 'WHAT PRICE BOOKS?' EN. COM. CALLS IN CHECK TANGLE FORECAST ZION COMPROMISE WITH ARABS

tin were recipients of similar telegraphed protests.

"I have wanted to write something up the contents of this book with the WPA officials," Senator Walsh said at the Capitol. "I have asked for a thorough investigation and explanation and while it was not forthcoming immediately, the WPA authorities have assured me they will look into the matter."

"They will prepare a statement and submit a report to me. That report will be sent to the citizens of Massachusetts."

Senator Lodge stated that he was taking the same direct to WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins and that he would insist on a complete investigation.

HURLEY OFFERS REPORT
Governor Hurley, meanwhile, characterized "many passages of the book as objectionable."

He found the guideline had gone out of its way to make dramatic references to the "character" of the courts of Massachusetts.

GROVER CRIES REPORT
His report was received by the governor this afternoon and at about the same time officials were busy publishing the volume and directors of the stage variety project of the WPA were ordered to confer with the librarian.

Librarian Douglas's excuse was but one of the aftermaths of the publication of the book. It was printed and printed at government expense and now being sold at $2.50 a copy.

Former Governor Joseph R. Ely called Douglas's excuse "a piece of the volume as 'propaganda'."

His first reaction was that the edition of the guideline book was gathered up and burned on the Boston Common.

He added, however, that he meant the "burning" was a figurative sense and that he used the figure of speech because he thought the book was "poisonous."

"I object to having the poisonous used for propaganda," he declared.

"I really couldn't turn any book. I wouldn't really turn any book, first because probably no more than 40 people read the thing anyway; secondly, because it is nothing compared to the plans that the federal theater project is putting on."

"But what good are these books, anyone? How much did they cost? How much time was spent preparing the issue? And what for?"

"I guess maybe I'm a Yankee. Tories are those who don't agree with Roosevelt."

IN END PRINTING
While Librarian Douglas was recommending that the objectionable passages in the guideline be deleted, however, it was decided that the volume into a second printing.

Both Governor Hurley and Secretary of State Clegg are thus placed in the embarrassing position of having ordered the book to be printed when they signed before the volume was printed.

Protests came to the governor's office from all quarters of the state and indignation was expressed by the Legislature. The state as well as to Massachusetts congressmen, condemning the use of the federal funds had been used.

What drew down caustic criticism from all these sources was the extensive and unqualified support of the guideline ordered by Governor Hurley and Secretary of State Clegg and the guideline continuously refer to the "character" of the courts of Massachusetts as a "poisonous" and "a clear example of the attitude of justice to members of unpopular minorities."

This has been the kingdom of Red and racism throughout the world since the case closed and Sacco and Vanzetti have been held on annual May Day Red celebrations as martyrs.

Judge Leo P. Doherty, leading Governor Hurley for having official.

compliance of the intransigence to the state courts termed the wording of the Sacco-Vanzetti report "an unwarranted assault" on the system of justice in this state.

The guideline drew criticism from the moment the first copy was placed in the hands of Executive Secretary John V. Mahoney for Governor Hurley.

When the governor was informed of the matter, particularly the use in the title, the Sacco-Vanzetti case was handled, he issued a statement through Mahoney.

"The Governor does not agree with many of the passages of the volume. He believes that the passages are expressions of facts as interpreted by a group, and while they may appear convincing, they do not coincide with his view."

In the volume, the colored presentation of the Sacco-Vanzetti case history takes 41 lines in three different chapters.

The historic Boston Tea Party is history in nine lines, while the famous Boston Massacre receives only five.

The disastrous spring floods of 1936, which cost two-twenty-five lives and caused $100,000,000 in property damage are passed by in a paragraph.

First reference to the Sacco-Vanzetti case occurs on page 76 in the chapter on "Labor" as follows:

"In 1920, a fish pedlar, Bartolomeo Vanzetti, and a shoe worker, Nicola Sacco, both members of the Gallieni group of anarchists, were arrested on charges of murder and robbery in connection with the theft of $153,000 payroll. Despite their alibis, the highly circumstantial nature of the evidence, and the commendation of previous employers, they were convicted and sentenced to hang. During the seven years which Sacco and Vanzetti were executed in the electric chair, the execution of the sentence was held throughout the world. President Lowell of Harvard, President of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Senator Robert F. Taft were invited by Governor Fuller to sign a petition to the governor to pardon the prisoners. They refused to do so. The petition of the court and Sacco and Vanzetti were executed on August 23, 1927. It was widely known that the execution of the two men was the affirmation of the two men with an unpopular minority group."

STORM CENTER
The second reference is found on page 78 in the "Boston chapter" as follows:

"Hardly had the excitement of the trial subsided when Boston became the storm center of another crisis, concerning the arrest, trial, conviction and execution of the Italian anarchists, the trial dragged out over several years and was held in every civilized quarter of the globe. The entire machinery was smeared with suspicion and petitions flooded the office of the governor. He refused in an effort to stay the execution and obtain a new trial. The men were executed in Boston on August 23, 1927. The authorities no doubt believed that the men were safe, even though, as it turned out, the affair was far from over. Sacco and Vanzetti had become, for a new generation, the symbol of the 'un-American' and 'un-American' activities."

Under the chapter devoted to the town of Dedham the following reference to the case is found:

"The most notorious of all incidents in the history of the state was that of Sacco and Vanzetti in 1927. The incident involved the quality of the trial, the attitude of the judge, the dragging out of the trial over several years, the execution of the two men, and the world-wide storm of denunciation from pulp and press, resulting in the trial being held in the shadow of the execution of the two men."

The commission reported that the trial had been fairly conducted and had reached a proper conclusion. Sacco and Vanzetti were executed following publication of this report. But on the very same day, a play, based on it, won the Pulitzer prize and a brochure on the report of the Lowell commission was circulated at the Harvard tercentenary celebration in 1936.

Two employees of the Finance Commission today refused to accept two summonses issued by Mayor Mansfield to appear for questioning by him at the commission public investigation of the Codman Hill Construction Co.

The employees, Lester P. Murphy, an investor, and William P. Campbell, accountant, returned the summons to the mayor.

Mansfield went before the commission and complained as the Codman Hill hearing resumed, there upon the commission failed to accept him as an extraordinary circumstance of producing his witnesses for him.

At some later date, possibly tomorrow, the mayor will question Campbell and Murphy. He said that Mansfield, engineer who had testified the Codman Hill work cost more than it should have but Mansfield is away on a long trip.

CORRECTS FIGURES
The mayor's report that his committee were issued his salary schedule as that was the only means he could find to make his work. He said the law permitted it, but when he could find no means of enforcing the law in the matter.

After the commission decided to grant the "extraordinary privilege" Campbell and Murphy were called as a witness by George R. Parsons, the commission's special counsel.

Correcting testimony he had previously given, Campbell advised the total amount of work done for the Finance Commission was $117,500, not $117,000 as he had previously stated. He also corrected the figure for the Codman Hill work as $117,000, not $117,500 as he had previously stated.

NEW BOOK STARTED
The Boston Evening American project in this state has already embarked on a new volume, "The Guidebook to the State of Massachusetts," and is now in the hands of the publisher, the Boston Evening American. It is now in the hands of the publisher, the Boston Evening American.

It was also learned that the other New England states will have guidebooks published within a few months which will be published after the Massachusetts volume is published. The guidebooks are now in the hands of the publisher, the Boston Evening American.

While it is possible that the guidebooks may be published in the near future, it is also possible that they may not be published at all. The guidebooks are now in the hands of the publisher, the Boston Evening American.

Police Commissioner E. Mark Sullivan remarked to Brennan "I've never got more nice pictures of the books of the Codman Hill company are still available. All I'm trying to do is get at the books and we'll get the truth."

JURIST BRANDS GUIDE 'AFFRONT TO COURTS'

During the "unusually important" reference to Massachusetts, justice in the history of the Commonwealth, the jurist brands guide, published by the Boston Municipal Court Justice Leo P. Doherty today, was the subject of a state judicial system.

In a strong-winded statement, the jurist brands guide, published by the Boston Municipal Court Justice Leo P. Doherty today, was the subject of a state judicial system.

"How any liberty-loving, civilized, Massachusetts citizen, can fail to agree with the action of Governor Hurley in severely criticizing the so-called 'Jurist Brands Guide' Book, recently published by the WPA, would be beyond my comprehension."

"I feel that the Governor should be highly commended for his prompt condemnation of the unjust attack made in this book upon the judicial system of our Commonwealth."

"I have taken the pains to purchase a copy of the book and to peruse its more important parts. While there is considerable material of historic and informational value, the book is a shameful and astounding when I read the portions critical of Massachusetts justice and our courts."

Not only have important omissions been made of episodes in the history of our Commonwealth, which would show the patriotism and the loyalty of our citizens to American institutions and which might be included in a work of this kind, but the unwarranted exaltation upon our judicial system cannot go without strong disapproval."

ADMITS $25,000 HOLDUP WITH TOY GUN

Using a fifteen foot pistol, Tavin Hemo, alias Charles Nelson, 21, who escaped Worcester authorities two years ago in a hospital case, admitted a $25,000 jewelry robbery near Kears, Wash., he confessed today in Detroit.

The confession of the Pittsburgh youth arrested with Everett Jones, 21, a New York companion, after the latter had attempted to pawn a $5000 diamond for $4, was under investigation in Detroit by G-men as well as Detroit police.

Thousands of dollars worth of loot, as well as many rings, were found in his hotel room. Hemo said he thought the loot was about $2000 worth of his loot room in pawnshops all over the country.

HITCHHIKE HOLDS

He told his companions:

"I was in Kears when I decided to pull a holdup. I bought a 15-foot toy pistol and a piece of rope and walked to a highway outside the town."

"I was picked up by a man in a car and after riding a short distance I pulled the gun on him, forced him out of the car and tied him up with a rope."

"I thought the man might have as much as two or three hundred but when I searched him and the car and found the jewelry it almost took my breath away. I wrapped it in a handkerchief and hid it in a hollow tree."

RECOVERS JEWELS

He said he recovered the jewels the day after the holdup, took them to Minneapolis, where he sold $100 worth, and then began a series of five trips between Chicago and St. Louis.

Government agents applied the pressure because of the federal law against carrying jewelry across state lines.

Police said Hemo admitted he carried a piece of jewelry to New Hampshire before his arrest following the arrest on charges of stealing a car in Worcester.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 19—Whether she hopes the family and friends of the Francis Ormond Frenches have held out in the last few days that they may arrive at a reconciliation remains biased today.

Vessel Ignored Distress Calls, Says Skipper

Gloucester, Aug. 19 (AP)—Gloucester officials were investigating claims of Captain Jerome Noble of the gun motor launch and claimed that a steamer 12 miles off Gloucester had ignored distress signals he sent up.

The Maine and Winifred had been warning in heavy seas for 24 hours, after being her propeller 14 miles off Eastern Point.

"I set off red flares and climbed into the rigging to give distress signals when a steamer passed this night, but we were completely ignored," Captain Noble testily related.

Tennis Holds No. Shore Spotlight; Sailing on South Shore

By BETTY ALDEN

IT IS NOT A CASE of "You pays your money and you takes your chances" . . . for most of those who buy an admission ticket to the Essex County Club's tennis tournament, which is going on this week, know exactly what they are going to see . . . and more often than not there is a family connection between the court and the gallery . . .

Wives and mothers bring their whole families to watch Daddy or Auntie Jane doing their best to eliminate someone else's Daddy and Auntie from the mixed doubles . . . in the hope of ultimately bringing home the little silver cup to help decorate the family trophy shelf . . .

Mrs. Frederic Winthrop had more than one member of her family to watch and applaud as they pursued their war on the courts yesterday afternoon . . . Her daughter, Kay, who is ranked as the ninth best woman player in the country, and is top seeded in the Essex tournament, of course draws an enthusiastic gallery of North Shore friends . . . Her brother, Nat Winthrop, and his wife, the former Serita Bartlett, are partners in the mixed doubles . . . and Serita has shouldered the extra responsibility of managing the sociable end of the tournament . . . seeing that the out-of-town players are entertained and comfortably accommodated at various spacious homes about the shore . . .

Other family parties in the gallery yesterday included Mrs. G. Collet, Caner and George, Jr., who kept their eyes glued on the courts while Mr. Caner was in action . . . Mrs. Harvey Bundy applauded for her brother-in-law, F. M. Bundy, who was paired with Gracy Wheeler in an interesting doubles match against Patsy Henry McIlwain of New York . . . Mrs. Bundy was with Mrs. George Denby of Manchester, whose simple white and navy cotton frock was topped with a novel hat of red felt printed with small blue lines, making a checked design . . .

Mrs. John Gleason's raspberry color cardigan matched the wide patent leather belt on her simple white silk dress and made an effective contrast with her reddish locks . . . she was on hand to cheer for her husband's team . . . watching first from the playmen's box, then from the regular visitors' gallery . . . Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Shaw, who are regular standbys at tennis events, were right on hand as Mrs. Charles Deven's, Mrs. Putnam Smith in a lovely dress of gray coarse linen with yellow accessories . . . Mrs. Harrison Reynolds in white mink from head to toe, chatting with the Bayard Warrens who clustered about her snappy maroon colored car for a greeting . . . "Charlie" lives and her mother drove over from Annisquam for the afternoon and others present were Mrs. William Dexter, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin M. Johnson, Jr., Dorothy Potter, Anne Sortwell, and Mrs. Justa Gioia in a soft gray wool sport dress with a monogram embroidered on the collar, and accompanied by her sub-deb daughters, Joan and Anne . . .

South Shore Yachting Fans Hopeful

KITTY FISKE, who stands a good chance of winning the southern Massachusetts sailing championships and the right to represent that zone in the National Women's championship races at Rye, N. Y., the first week in September, took a sailor's holiday yesterday and went down to Newport to look over the big yachts in the New York Yacht Club cruise . . .

The yachting experts say that New England has an excellent chance to retain the cup which is emblematic of women's yachting supremacy of the United States . . . an honor now held by Frances McIlwain of Cohasset, who has already won the South Shore Championships and will therefore be at the starting line to defend her title . . .

Kitty Fiske's drive to Newport yesterday topped off a jolly luncheon party which she and her mother, Mrs. Augustus H. Fiske, gave at the Duponts in Narragansett for a few of their summer neighbors in Cataumet . . . The guests included Mrs. Francis Austin Harding, Mrs. Gardner Hall and her daughter, Rosemond Hall, Mrs. Talbot Barker, Dorothy Rackemann, Mrs. Francis Austin and her daughter, Kramche Austin . . .

Kitty's crew, which represents the Buzzards Bay Yacht Club, consists of Louise Harding and Dorothy Rackemann, and they will compete in the finals for the southern Massachusetts women's sailing championships at Edgartown August 30 and 31 . . . One of their most serious contestants will be Mrs. Felix duPont and her crew, Virginia Hoyt, Hope Sweetser and Mrs. Douglas Angier, who sail under the burgee of the Beverly Yacht Club . . .

Constance Bradley Honored

MRS. CHARLES B. BRADLEY of Concord, N. J., the former Constance Terrahon of Milton, gave a dinner party at the Jordan Pond House at Seal Harbor the other evening in honor of her daughter, Constance, who made her Boston debut at the Chilton Club last winter. Among the guests were a number of sister girls of Miss Bradley's, including Loretta Brooks, Susan Chilton, Lee Hyde and Elizabeth Watson . . . Others seated around the festive board were Cyril Prout, Amy Parker Jr., Solier Weid Jr., William Minot, Sybil Coates, Rosanne Wigham, Natalie Osborne, Lincoln Godfrey and several other young Bar Harbor summer colonists . . .

Mrs. William Elliot Sedgwick opened the beautiful Sedgwick mansion at Stockbridge Tuesday for a sale to aid the blind of the state . . .

PICKS USHERS FOR BENEFIT

Ruben J. Brewer, who is in charge of the ushers for the program of motogates to be given by Mrs. Beatrice Harford at the Essex County Club in Manchester on Thursday afternoon August 20, has recruited Andre and Nancy Canale, Faith Kicker, Emily Joy, and Ruth Weiburn will take tickets at the door . . . Among the patronesses for the event are Mrs. Charles H. Johnson, who will host the Home and School Visitors Association and the Beverly Farms Association, Mrs. George J. M. Coudrie, Mrs. Harold G. Cutler, Mrs. Frances Curtis, Mrs. Graham

THESE TWO YOUTHFUL SALORETTES, Alice Appleton and Katherine Miller, are learning the fine points of small boat sailing under the burgee of the Annisquam Yacht Club in the hopes that some day they will be in the thick of competition for the feminine championship of the North Shore.

Roxbury Notre Dame Alumnae to Hold Tea

Officers and board members of Roxbury Notre Dame Alumnae . . . taking an active part in the international convention of Notre Dame Alumnae this coming weekend, will play host at a tea to be held at the academy on Saturday afternoon . . .

Deafening summer hunts for this important conference will be a number of prominent members. Mrs. Martin Catford of Medford, newly elected president, who has been summing in the White Mountains and is now in Seattle for the remainder of the season . . . will be on hand for the event. Other returning to take part in the sessions . . . and seated with the tea Saturday, are Gertrude Curry and Mrs. William Ellis. Miss Curry has returned to her Belmont home from a motor trip through New England . . . and Mrs. Ellis is just back from a European sojourn . . .

Quite a colony of Roxbury graduates are to be found in Scituate these days. Mary Sullivan, Mary McIlwain, with her niece, Patricia and Mary Gormley, and Mrs. Frank Good are summing there . . . Mrs. Arthur Berry and Mrs. Chester Brown are both in Nahant. Ellen Kelley is vacationing in Kennebunkport, Me.

Many Girls Offer to Wed Man Who Sought Aid In This Column

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Two or three weeks ago this column published a letter from a man who signed himself "Mr. X." He was a bit downhearted and lonesome.

Temperamentally he confessed himself to be what the Germans call "Friend of Nature."

He enjoyed taking long walks in the country, identifying birds, and collecting the eggs of the birds he found in the woods.

He had never been able to find just the right kind of girl to share these simple pleasures. He wrote that the girls he met always seemed to have too much high-powered cars, park and drink, and that they were too dull to appreciate real companionship. He didn't object to kissing a girl if she approved of him, but he wasn't for storming every Jane and Maudie he met and demanding kisses.

Up to date a great many girls have written me letters saying that "Mr. X." is just the type of man they are looking for, and that they are as much opposed to him as they are to the girls he likes. They like to take walks and find forer plans, and in their cooking and evening meal on the banks of a river, with a congenial companion, would seem heavenly.

MANY WANT HIM

Yet the only men these girls even meet seem to be the rough-and-ready sort who seem to be getting ten minutes after an introduction, and if they have a car of their own, borrow one.

To these boys a girl takes seems more to their taste than identifying a plant or enjoying a walk.

All these young ladies, and some have been writing me for some time, are looking for a man who is just the type of man they are looking for, and that they are as much opposed to him as they are to the girls he likes.

At least he has never married, and he continues to produce best order.

Spillbound over the life of the party, you may be passing up a winner.

Seasonal Tips

SO VERY many reasonable suggestions are at hand that it is sometimes difficult for us to know just what to select for your approval or disapproval.

Every time we go to market we see more fruits and vegetables and return with so many ideas that there seems to be no starting point.

We're a penchant for seasonable food that can be prepared in advance and thereby enable us to take advantage of these last few weeks of vacation.

Although we seldom find a quantity of attractive platters of "old cuts" many more suggestions come to mind. One suggestion for glorifying the cold meat is "Chicken Omelette." They are so easy to make and so effective that you'll be delighted with their very effect.

Their natural looking little green sprouts to any gathering of their nippy flavor.

Then, too, it's possible to change the "Chicken Omelette" by using different kinds of cheese or chicken, or by the addition of a little mustard. It's a good idea to prepare the "great loaf cheese" in the refrigerator. Other suggestions are a little horseradish sauce.

These "same little apples" of Roxbury, New Haven, Conn., will be his brother's best man and the corps of ushers will include John Waver, Jr. and Shilston Waver, Jr. of New Haven, Conn., James Carter, Charles Norris of Milton, and Edward Sturges of Cleveland.

Following the ceremony, there will be a reception at the Adams street home of the bride's parents in Milton.

The bride, who is a member of the Junior League, is a graduate of Milton Academy and Vassar College.

Values of Stocks

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

While the writer does not subscribe to the idea the selection of stocks can be made on a times-earnings basis, it is admitted that the relationship of the two supplies a fairly accurate measure of the type of market being witnessed.

Thus when a representative group of stocks is selling at about 14 times the earnings, as at present, it is almost very well said that a bull market is taking shape. Rather does it appear that the market has been taking earnings into account in quite a conservative manner. And this is true even though an industrial stock index such as that compiled by Dow-Jones has risen close to 100 per cent above the bank holiday index of 1935. While a cautious attitude may prevail in various brokerage and investment circles because of political considerations and strike and war news, it is fair to assume that the conservative valuation of stocks at present, and the outlook for further gains, promise still further rises in stock prices.

After studying price earnings ratios and comparing current price levels with post-1929 data, and noting that when all is said and done the market has only come back about halfway, it is interesting to compare the performance of general business with that of the industrial sector. The latter has actually recovered about three-quarters of the ground lost between the depression. The total output of all products in the country has an even better record. Approximately 80 per cent of the volume lost between '29 and '36 has been recovered.

It is obvious that stock prices are on a sounder base than many observers are willing to admit. Summed up, the market has recovered about halfway. It is interesting to compare the performance of general business with that of the industrial sector. The latter has actually recovered about three-quarters of the ground lost between the depression. The total output of all products in the country has an even better record. Approximately 80 per cent of the volume lost between '29 and '36 has been recovered.

At the beginning of this month many market observers were of the opinion that the day was near in need of correction. This writer is inclined to doubt whether or not such a correction is necessary. The one other possibility, it was pretty generally expected, was that the market might move aside, and this proved to be the case. However, after a fortnight of stalemate the market lifted itself out of its rut.

PORK SHOWS

WAY

By FRANKLIN MULLIN

Chicago, Aug. 19 (AP)—Most commercial porkers, now being burned by last year's drought, may get substantial relief before the year ends, livestock market, diagnosis indicated today.

Recent decline in wholesale pork prices, market experts said, may prelude lower meat costs soon for retail buyers.

White features on butcher shop windows throughout the nation indicate a shortage of pork, and pork cuts are the highest in seven years.

Although it has been a year since the drought was burning up livestock feed and raising the cost of the grain, the full financial effect of the drought just now is being felt in the market.

The week prices of hogs and cattle were highest in seven years, and the price of hogs was the highest in seven years.

There are factors in the trade which indicate that the price of hogs will be higher in the future.

Some companies in fact, a good many of them, are now making a profit on the sale of hogs.

BROADER Trading LIFTING OF BARS

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service

New York, Aug. 19.—This controversy over the "quality" of the stock market between the Stock Exchange and the Securities and Exchange Commission simmers down to a choice between:

- 1—A gambling market, which means easy money for the speculator and a wider spread between prices.
- 2—An investment market, which means a wider spread between prices and a wider spread between prices.

The happy solution would be something halfway between the two and that evidently is what Charles F. Gay, the Stock Exchange president, has in mind when he charges government regulation is driving up the market and makes a plea for broader trading.

But human nature being what it is, particularly the Wall Street genus, such an Utopian market state would be hard, if not damn hard, to achieve. There are too many itching palms down here.

SPECULATION DESIRED

From the interest of the stock market, the downward action of the market and their employees, a more active speculative market is to be desired. For the brokers must make money in the market. The setup down here is to be continued. And the only way the brokers can make more money is for more people to buy and sell.

But that is secondary to the question of whether the market can be made an investment market to the public interest.

It is the contention of Mr. Gay's small volume market that the present small volume market is the only way to make the market a public interest market.

U. S. IS Probing TRUSTS

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff

Washington, Aug. 19.—The federal government is considering anti-trust proceedings against a group of major oil companies operating in the East and on the Pacific Coast, it was revealed today at the Justice Department.

OIL CONCERNS TARGETS

A large force of agents attached to the federal bureau of investigation and the department's anti-trust division has been conducting an intensive inquiry into alleged price fixing by western oil companies.

Several weeks ago, the department received similar charges involving alleged price fixing in the New England oil market. An immediate investigation was ordered by Attorney General Cummings.

Although the government obtained a court order several years ago under which most oil companies agreed to cease monopolistic practices, the investigation was not discontinued.

The information is being studied by Assistant Attorney General Robert E. Jackson, New York attorney general, according to department officials.

While the investigation is in progress, the federal government is not making any public statement about the case.

The department's attorney of Eastern and Western oil groups is not making any public statement about the case.

WILFRED Classes Large

According to enrollments made for the coming fall and winter sessions, the number of students who will attend Wilfred Academy will be the largest in its history.

The academy offers a brilliant future to all students and represents a new building in the field of beauty culture training.

Close and comfortable rooms are large and airy—furnished with light, beautiful appointments and equipped with every facility for teaching beauty culture in its most advanced phases.

Students come from all parts of the world. A great many are natives of the United States and are graduates of the Wilfred Academy.

Wilfred graduates are found in the most beautiful places, having been placed there by the Wilfred Academy. Over 150 positions were filled with graduates in the summer of 1937.

While it is going fast, a long, hard climb before all this is accomplished, another significant step in the world was the recent publication of the Wilfred Academy.
